

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Veterans of the world war who are members here of the American Legion and of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be at the Danielson Sunday afternoon to participate in the parade and ceremonies attendant upon the dedication of a statue of Jean of Arc erected on the lawn of St. John's rectory grounds in honor of the men of the parish who were in the service.

The parade is to start at 2 o'clock. The line of march will take the parade through the principal streets of Danielson, field village and will terminate at the rectory grounds, where the pastor, Rev. Richard P. Morrissey, will preside at formal exercises, the speakers of the day to be Gov. Everett J. Lake, Rev. W. A. Kaste of Norwich and Rev. U. O. Baller of Tatfield.

The order of the parade will be as follows: Mounted troop, platoon of police, Danielson band, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, Jean of Arc pageant, Red Cross, Tubbs' band, Fourth degree members, K. of C., Spirit of '76, George and Martha, Washington, Washington band, various organizations and men of St. John's parish, floaters automobiles.

Accompaniment already received indicate that the ceremony will bring together representatives of many sections of eastern Connecticut. Danielson, Putnam, Willimantic, Jewett City and Norwich all will be largely represented.

The statue to be dedicated is a beautiful example of artistry in Carrara marble, sculptured in Italy and mounted on a base of Peabody granite. A bronze tablet affixed to the base bears the names of the men of the parish who served in the world war.

Patron Morrissey has caused to be published an interesting brochure which includes a summarized review of the events in the history of France in which Jean of Arc figured so prominently, and much information pertaining to unveiling ceremonies at Plaisance as well as splendid half-tone cuts of those prominently identified with the various organizations.

Counsel for U. S. District, superior of the lines that did business out of Danielson at various surrounding places until forced off by a decision of the public utility commission, Attorney E. L. Dargatz, said Thursday that the federal court decision made public Wednesday morning will in no way affect the fight that is being made in the superior court by this county to have the buses put back into service. On behalf of Mr. Pellet an appeal has been taken from the decision of the public utility commission to the superior court. The appeal is now pending.

and will likely be one of the matters taken up at the September term of court.

Thursday afternoon just before 2 o'clock as it were called out the fire department to aid in suppressing a blaze in a pile of coal at the plant of the River Weaving company near the state armory. The fire was not of a serious nature and the department was called, it was later said, as a precautionary measure.

A reflection of the stopping of some of the killing of manufacturing plants during the past winter and the consequent forcing into idleness of several hundred persons is seen in the annual reports of the town dealing particularly with the cost of the poor. The net cost for maintaining the poor during the year that closed July 31 was $12,902, the largest amount ever expended by Killingly in one year for such purpose.

While there need be no desire to criticize, it is a strange circumstance that many of those who were obliged to ask for aid and really were acutely in need of it were earning during the summer of last year more dollars per week than ever before in their lives. High cost of living coupled with the cost of high living in numerous cases left these high earners with no surplus money and within a short time numbers of families who had been enjoying unprecedented incomes for them went flat broke. It was a bitter lesson for those who went through the experience, much more so than the extra cost to the taxpayers as the result of maintaining the unemployed during a period of misfortune.

Next Sunday evening's union service will be held in the Baptist church and likely will be the final union service of the summer season. Rev. M. S. Stocking of the Methodist church will be the leader and preacher at this service.

Particular interest will attach next Sunday also to the service at the Congregational church in South Killingly. This church is observing its 175th anniversary on Labor day, when there will be a homecoming gathering for many former residents of the village.

The name of Joseph Dragon of Danielson should have been included in Thursday morning's obituary of Mrs. Adeline Bassett with that of George L. Dragon of Springfield as one of her brothers. Attention of dog owners is again being called to the necessity of observing the quarantine on the animals ordered by the commissioner on domestic animals. The majority of those who own dogs are seeing to it that their animals are kept confined, but not all are so careful to obey, and the warning is issued that arrests and prosecutions, which are expensive, will follow further failure to observe the rules.

Alfred E. Beauregard, a chief petty officer of the U. S. S. Prometheus, where he formerly was engaged in business, Mr. Beauregard had the unfortunate experience while here of being arrested through a misunderstanding, on a non-support charge, but his explanation, which proved entirely satisfactory to the officials, resulted in his being promptly released. The fact that another navy man of the same initials and name as Mr. Beauregard is wanted for non-support of his wife and two children led to Mr. Beauregard's unfortunate experience here. Naval authorities made the error of mistaking the local Mr. Beauregard for the man of the same name who is wanted for non-support.

Members of the local Odd Fellows' and Rebekah lodges had a fine outing at Woodlark park Thursday afternoon, with a supper served at 6:30, and dancing during the evening hours.

At the home of Mrs. Hattie Bailey on School street Wednesday evening Mrs. Ray Bailey was hostess at a party in honor of her sister, Miss Alice Wells, who is to be a fall bride. The rooms were prettily decorated in pink and white. The evening was devoted to music and various other pastimes, and refreshments were served.

Miss Edna Swartz, soprano soloist at the Congregational church Northampton, Mass., is to sing at the Sunday morning service at the Westfield Congregational church.

The Providence carmen's outing to have been held at Camp Whippoorwill, near East Killingly, on Thursday was postponed until a date later in the season.

It is considered remarkably fortunate that not one day of rainy weather has interfered with the operations at the Quinebaug mill canal since the work was undertaken two weeks ago tomorrow.

J. D. Leighton of Fall River was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Thursday.

Hopkins Hill at Plainfield seems to be a Jonah spot this season. Another motor mishap occurred there Thursday afternoon in which his touring car turned at a point where a truck with a heavily laden trailer was stalled on the hill.

This section of eastern Connecticut, including Brooklyn, the Woodstocks, Pomfret and the Thompsons is rapidly winning a rating as one of the most beautiful parts of southern New England and scores of tourists from distant parts are making the territory an objective on their trips.

PUTNAM

Antonio Ross of this city was taken into custody Thursday morning for official of the town of Thompson, for operating a motor vehicle without having an operator's license. Later a fine and costs were imposed upon Ross in a justice's court in Thompson. The finding of Ross was the result of becoming involved a short time ago in a minor accident, a demand being made at that time that he show his operator's license, and, according to the police of this city, he could not produce a license at that time.

Irene Lucier, 6, is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital as the result of being struck late Monday afternoon by an automobile driven by James Luster. The child's leg was broken when the car hit as she ran across the street from the playgrounds near the high school. Mr. Luster stopped his machine and took the child to the hospital.

Cards received Thursday from Malcolm M. Willey, who with his cousin is on a hike from this city to Augusta, were post marked at Franklin, N. H. One of the cards stated that the young men covered 110 miles Monday, their first day out. They wrote that they have done some hiking, but that "every one asks us to ride," so that we are not experiencing any difficulty in getting in much mileage every day.

Donald Johnson, son of Attorney and Mrs. E. H. Johnson of this city, will leave today (Friday) en route to Porto Rico, where he is to teach in a high school. Mr. Johnson is a graduate of Yale university.

Cars filled with Elks left here Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock for Willimantic, where the brothers, as guests of the members of the lodge in that city, participated in the parade during the early evening.

A deer at the store of George E. Dresser, in Main street, was forced during the early hours of Monday morning for the purpose of extinguishing what was supposed to be a fire within. Happily, this did not prove to be the case, the smoke that was seen coming from the store being from a quantity of chocolate which was being prepared for use at the soda fountain. When the store was closed the fire of the heater was not shut off and in due time the chocolate began to smoke.

Director Ellis, of the state trade school, said Thursday morning that indications are for more students than ever at the institution during the coming fall and winter.

In connection with the work being done, Mr. Ellis issued the following statement: Years ago trades were taught by the old apprentice system. In those days a pauper child of from 5 to 10 years of age was sent to the city of New York. During this period the learner was required to do such work as was most beneficial to his employer and was slowly advanced from one grade of work to another until he was kept on one grade or operation for a year. Little or no attention was paid to the apprentice's education. The apprentice was necessary to make any advance in his trade knowledge to a point where he could supervise work or become a specialist in his own line.

If any studies of theory in connection with the work were received by the apprentice it was by attending a night school or depending upon the tuition of someone who oftentimes was poorly equipped to instruct even though possessed of the required knowledge. In some parts of the country yet within the last decade there has been a general tendency toward the more modern method of trade school training for boys desirous of entering the industrial fields.

The trade school plan is a more intensive study in the practice of all the subjects included in the trade and each student is advanced just as fast as he masters the problems met with in the work.

One-quarter to one-third of his time is spent in academic study or what is commonly known as "related subjects" and in most every case the youthful tradesman graduates with a higher knowledge of the theories of his trade than journeymen of years experience have acquired in practice.

This knowledge of the principles of his work makes it possible for the trade school boy, after a short experience in actual industry, to become an expert and good material for future executive positions.

Of course the higher the student's elementary education is upon entering the trade school the more rapid his advancement in the practical application of his knowledge upon graduation.

The Putnam Trade School is organized on this basis. Its staff of instructors are men who have spent considerable time in the practical application of their trade and who have trained and qualified as instructors.

Each student is given individual instruction and is advanced in this work as fast as he masters the problems met with in the work.

Trades taught in Putnam are machine, electrical, drafting, carpentry, and painting. Complete information will be given upon request.

Poultry selection demonstrations were held in territory heretofore on Thursday and others will be held today. The first of Thursday's demonstrations was at H. J. Thompson's in the town of Thompson, and the second at the home of Everett Whittemore, on Park street, Putnam, near the former Putnam fairgrounds.

State Attorney Charles E. Spear is returning from a vacation spent in the vicinity of Cape Cod.

Attorney and Mrs. Arthur S. Macdonald will have Mrs. Macdonald's sister, Miss Annie Cameron of Sydney, N. S., as their guest during the coming week.

I. Beauregard of the Carrell hotel and a party of friends are to leave here at the week-end for a motor trip to Canada.

There were no developments of special interest Thursday relative to the search for the parties who abandoned a baby boy at East Thompson Monday afternoon.

George W. Baker, chairman of Putnam chapter of the Red Cross, and Attorney Archie Macdonald, Jr., of the American Legion will give information to former service men relative to any claims they may have pending. The flying squadron of the state organization is to be in Putnam September 7-9, and men who have claims will have an opportunity to discuss them with the visitors.

Rev. John C. Stoddard of the Putnam Baptist church is to conduct services at the annual conference of the American Baptist churches of the state on Sunday afternoon. The subject will be "The Man of All Ages Who Never Failed."

Boys who were held accountable for breaking into a railroad shack at Moosic, N. Y., on the evening of July 4, and stealing a quantity of railroad signal flares were rounded up by the police and taken to task for their adventure. At the Methodist church this (Friday) evening there is to be a meeting of the committee in charge of the arrange-

PUTNAM, CONN.

The most valuable years are years in which you PREPARE FOR FUTURE WORK. The young man between 15 and 18 cannot command a high rate of pay in any line. At this age he is better suited for training in some line which will be worth a great deal to him as a man, besides rendering him of greater service to society. A small sacrifice for the present is better than sacrificing the future.

The Putnam Trade School presents the following Trade Instruction together with related subjects:

DRAFTING—Shop mathematics, lettering, drafting room conventions, projections, revolutions and developments; mechanical calculating, free hand sketching, machine and tool designing, drafting room systems.

MACHINE—Bench, lathe, milling machine and floor work. Drawing, mathematics, tool making, hardening and tempering.

CARPENTRY—Includes house building, cabinet making, architectural drafting, mathematics.

TEXTILE—Study of textile machinery, weaving, designing, cloth analysis, yarn calculations, mathematics, drafting, machine shop practice.

PATTERN MAKING—Mathematics, drafting, segment work, construction work, embracing core work; study of materials.

ELECTRICAL—Elementary electricity and magnetism, storage batteries, generators, machine work, woodwork, drawing, mathematics, motors, transformers, wiring.

Types of Courses—Regular All-Day Trade, High School Co-operative and Part Time Courses. The Regular All-Day Trade Course may be completed in a little over two years.
